A Morning with Dr. Sean Lessard

8:00 am Breakfast

JUST ANNOUNCED!

Dr. Sean Lessard is from the Montreal Lake Cree Nation in Treaty 6 territory, and is a writer, researcher, and community advocate for Indigenous Youth wellness and leadership. He believes that when youth are supported through relationship and community, powerful things can rise to the surface.

Join us for a remarkable morning of learning, as Dr. Lessard reflects on the importance of presence and trust when working with youth, and the role that educators and leaders play as advocates and allies.

More information will become available as we continue to co-create this session with Dr. Lessard.

Everyday Resiliency™
starts here.

Resiliency isn't something we have or don't have — it's something we build and foster.

It's about making what matters most, matter most.

The framework helps you do the extraordinary by making strategic choices

HUMOUR

An educational behaviorist (one of very few in the world) and a globally recognized speaker and scholar, Dr Robyne Hanley-Dafoe is also your friendly neighbourhood scientist who makes life make sense! With a treasure trove of awards and a worldwide following, she's on a mission to empower leaders and teams everywhere with practical strategies for fostering resiliency and making stress your ally, not your enemy.

Dr Robyne embodies her teachings by seamlessly blending real-world realities, rigorous research, and profound wisdom with her own personal journey. A mother of three teenagers, a high school dropout turned respected professor, author, entrepreneur and survivor of a life-altering accident, her life story exemplifies her unwavering dedication of spreading resilience. Dr Robyne proves that it is not just a theory, but a transformative skill set.

Known for her engaging delivery, Dr Robyne crafts experiences that integrate scientific research with inspirational narratives into actionable insights across diverse platforms. Her approachability and relatability shine through, inspiring individuals and organizations to face challenges with confidence.

Fueled by historical fiction, coffee, and an unwavering belief that better days are always ahead, Dr Robyne is here to show us that resiliency isn't just a concept— it's a skill set that transforms your work and life.
